

You Keep

86

BAZZAR WITCH ACCIDENT, GILFORD, N.H. AP July 22, 1998

Police are investigation a bazzar accident yesterday evening at Giford, N. H.. Police received a call for assistance at 10:47 p.m. and arriving on the scene of the accident found a witch impoled in a tree. Police say the force of the impact drove the witch's broom more than five feet through the tree. The witch, identified only as Broonhilda was taken to Lakes Region General Hospital, where she was treated for a broken nose, broken chest bones, and missing eight teeth. The witch receive a blood transusion of over four gallons.

Unfortunately, while police were distracted, Broomhilda snatched her broom, leaped from a third floor window, and flew off into the night. Police issued an all points bulletin for the witch whom they say was assisted by an accomplice named Snaggletooth. When caputured the witch will be charged with speeding, reckless driving, escape while in custody and drunken driving. The home owner where the accident occured says he also intends to sue for extensive damages to his tree.

Police therorize that the witch was on her way to a witches meeting in an isolated, heavily wooded area near Morrill St. Residents of the area have reported numerous sighting of witches in the area in recent years. Any one having information of the whereabouts of Broomhilda or Snaggletoth are urgee to call the police. Please do not try to apprend these witches as they are dangerous!